Mugsy, a dog that lives in Nevada, left home for nine days and traveled 4,000 miles. Mrs. Melford, the dog's owner, had called the electrician to fix a broken light switch. When the electrician left, Mugsy jumped on his truck. A few blocks later, Mugsy jumped off the electrician's truck and onto a garbage truck because he smelled something interesting. The garbage truck arrived at the train station to pick up trash. Mugsy jumped on a train going to Chicago, 2,000 miles away.

Fortunately, Mugsy was wearing his identification collar. When the train arrived in Chicago, workers found him and called Mrs. Melford. She arranged to have Mugsy sent home by airplane.

"If Mugsy had not been wearing his collar, " exclaimed Mrs. Melford when she picked Mugsy up at the airport, "he might have gone all the way to the east coast." The airport attendants reported Mugsy had tried to board a freight truck headed for New York.
